Dear Parents / Carers,

You may have already seen on the news about the safeguarding concern linked to Spy Pet and Spy Dog books.

Towards the back of each book there is a URL link intended to direct keen readers to a companion website featuring bonus content. This URL link has been taken over by a third party who have used the site to post inappropriate material intended only for adult audiences.

The author, Andrew Cope, and Puffin Books have taken the matter extremely seriously and have commenced a complex legal process to have the website taken down as soon as possible.

We have removed these books from our shelves to either black-out the URL or remove that page of the book.

We ask you to return any copies that have been taken home by pupils to school immediately.

If you have these books at home, we advise that you also black-out the URL to prevent your child accessing the site inappropriately.

Please let us know if you feel your child may have already accessed this URL site.

Andrew Cope, the author of these books and Puffin Books have both been proactive following this takeover of Andrew's website. The stories shared within these books continue to be suitable for children.

Kind regards,

Ms. L Tuplin
Headteacher
